2. All in me calls for this, it calls for my rejection; This heavy unrighteousness, _ oh is_ there no protection?

My best services are rags, my best deeds are filthy._ Oh_

3. Grant me hear thy shoring voice, that in thy wounds is_ _pardon;_ Grant me see thy willing choice _ to make my hard heart softened._

Keep the broken-hearted sure,

Clinging to thy cross, our cure.

Oh, may we find a covert in thy wounds; Though our sins, they rise to meet us, how they fall next to the merits of you. Though our sins

they rise to meet us, how they fall next to the merits of you.
